PNB Harit Niwas

Reinforcing its commitment to sustainable finance and environmentally responsible banking, Punjab National Bank (PNB), one of India's leading public sector banks, has strengthened its PNB Harit Niwas Green Home Loan Scheme. The initiative aims to promote sustainable housing and encourage homebuyers and homeowners to embrace greener and more environmentally responsible living solutions. PNB Harit Niwas is designed to support a wide spectrum of customers including salaried individuals, professionals, self-employed persons, pensioners, businesspersons and farmers. The scheme covers ready-built green homes, under-construction properties in approved projects, self-construction on owned plots as well as renovation and retrofitting of existing homes to meet green building standards and improve overall energy efficiency levels.

PNB Harit Niwas' Green Home Loan Scheme

GUWAHATI, June 3: Punjab National Bank (PNB) has strengthened its PNB Harit Niwas' Green Home Loan Scheme to promote environmentally sustainable housing. Available to a wide range of individuals – including salaried employees, pensioners, business owners, and farmers – the scheme finances the purchase, construction, renovation, or takeover of green certified properties (certified by IGBC, GRIHA, or LEED), stated a press release.

Its key financial benefits include: 0.10% interest rate concession compared to regular home loans; zero processing fees and documentation charges; and up to 5% enhanced repayment eligibility, factoring in long-term utility savings from energy-efficient housing.

Subodh Kumar, GM of PNB's Retail Asset Business Division, said that the initiative aims to make eco-friendly housing more affordable. By offering these climate-conscious financial solutions, PNB encourages the adoption of energy-efficient homes that lower both carbon footprints and household utility expenses across India.
